Having fun in the great outdoors is a grim enough business already. Now somebody wants to compet the operators of small power boats to have drivers' licenses.

People setting out for a waterborne holiday in the family acow will soon have to heave all the fishing equipment and tents overboard to make room for documents.

If they take their car down to the waterfront for a start, attandard equipments includes an automobile license, driver's license a license for the radio in the car, a camp fire permit, and possibly, fishing, bunning and one published.

Before we carry this thing any further and demand licenses for people who operate kiddy cars and typewriters, let's take's stock of our position. Why not cut out all these fidding little permits and replace them by one all-embracing permit—a license to live?

Then if some bureaucrat doesn't like the look on our faces, can simply cancel the license. That will solve all our Duncan sportsman Bucky Kennett exchanged a root of a salmon the other day, the grapevine says.

Buck snagged a fair-sized fish at Cowichan Bay and brought it alongside. As he was about to put the gaff to it, the fish gave a big heave and pulled his rod overboard, shaking itself free of the hook at the same time.

Down went the Kennett rod to the bottom of the sea, but the fish stayed there, because it was played out. Buck still had his gaff, and he used it to land the fish. Debit: one rod. Credit: one salmon. That's what they tell me.

A Serious Omission

cess Elizabeth and Prince Phllip are scheduled to proceed up-Island from Victoria en route to the private holiday site arranged for them, residents bordering the Island Highway are to be denied even a glimpse of the Royal couple. The sharp disappointment of the Duncan area, traditionally the most British settlement in the province, is therefore easily understood. The matter should not rest as announced.

Surely some plans can yet be made to include the up-Island centres lying between here and the special vacation site. Undeniably the Royal visitors cannot go everywhere in Canada, and by the time of their journey to Victoria they will have been surfeited by addresses of welcome and official receptions. These need not be added to in this instance but since the Princess and her consort will be actually in the area, it would be no hard-ship for the Royal party merely to drive lowly through communities eager to see and one feels sure that if Their Royal Highnesses knew the aituation they would ac-quiesce willingly. Of necessity, naturally, while they approve the schedules laid out for quiesce willingly. Of necessity, naturally, while they approve the schedules laid out for them the details are arranged by officials of the country they are visiting. The omission of any consideration for loyal residents upstand is thus a serious mistake which one trusts will be rectified.

When the King and Queen were here in 1939 people from up-Island perforce had to come to Victoria to add to the welcome, but that was because the itinerary limited Their Majesties to this city alone. This time the Royal visitors are due to travel farther up the island and it should not be at all difficult judgment than heretofore in deciding to allow the courts to determine Mr. Charles T. Hamilton's latest claim for neration of services in connection with the Memorial Arena contract. This paper recommended recourse to judicial settlemen long ago, when payment of earlier accounts was under consideration by the council. If the corporation throughout this unfortunate dispute had used the courts as they are intended to be used, much of the wrangling might have been avoided. The civil courts exist for the determination of disputes as to the performance of contractual obligations.

It is not necessary in this instance for the city council to initiate anything. Mr. Hamil-ton, who has already been paid $24,000 for his services as consulting engineer and supervisor of construction of the arena, is claiming an additional $8,562 in final settlement. It is now open to him to sue. If he does so the corporation will have the opportunity as defendant to show in what particulars it believes he failed to fulfill his contract, and it will be for the court to decide the issue on the basis of sworn testimony, which we believe is the only way it ever can be decided to the satisfaction of the taxpayers.

The possibility of a lawsuit now puts a different aspect on the employment of outside engineers to make another technical success of the areas deemed necessary by surveys of the arena, deemed necessary by the council because of defects alleged to have become apparent recently. So many survey of the arena, deemed necessary by the past, and so much has been spent thereon in time and money, that when yet another was mooted in council a few weeks ago it was felt that the city's own experts should be used to save the taxpayers further heavy expense. If the matter is to go to court, however, it seems prudent for the corporation to place itself in a position of being able to adduce independent expert evidence on all relevant technical questions. In these changed circumstances the incurring of this additional and wholly unexpected expense

Overtime in the Woods

EFUSAL by logger memberships of the R International Woodworkers of America to accept overtime work in the woods as a means of offsetting effects of the prolonged forest closure, is a serious matter not merely for the operators but for all union embers who earn their living in the mills-is even more difficult to comprehend in ew of the fact that the district organization of the I.W.A. approved the principle of over-time work, subject to acceptance by the locals individually, as a necessary concession by labor in a time of emergency. One would have thought that the loggers would have welcomed the chance to earn extra money to help make up for the loss of summer wages and tide them over winter interruptions of operations, especially since the I.W.A. agreement for emergency over the I.W.A. agreement for emergency over-time protects the principle of the 40-hour week. One would have expected, also, some concern for the plight of their brothers in the mills whose earnings have been cut off or reduced by the scarcity of logs.

The resumption of cutting in the woods does not mean the overnight replacement of depleted or exhausted log supplies at the

does not mean the overnight replacement of depleted or exhausted log supplies at the sawmills. It takes a long time for standing timber to reach the mills in the form of logs, and until the supply can be brought back to normal a large proportion of LW.A. members may be out of work or on part-time.

The loggers and the millworkers are all members of the same organization, and something more than pay-envelopes could be harmed by this lack of thought by one section for the welfare of the other.

Sir,-This morning's Colonist tells us that the ballroom of Government House is to be re-decorated for the Royal visit at a cost of $10,000 to $15,000. On another page I see a letter eging that the pensions board can no longer iver extract free to the aged. I wonder what Princess Elizabeth would say about this if she knew? Our Royal visitors are human beings —the same as you and I—and I believe in my feart they would be glad to dist a city where pomp and ceremony take a back seat. Princess Stimbeth has the teachings of a wise mother and wise grandmother. She would be the first to say, "Let us see Victoria as it is—if there is money to spend, use it to the good of humanity, help the needy and the aged."

All of us want to give our Royal couple the biggest, warmest welcome ever-but in Heaven's name let's not overdo it. If the government can spend ten to fifteen thousand dollars to re-decorate a ballroom—I would say they can afford to spend a hundred times that amount to help people who are unable to help themselves

For years Leopold matched his wits against Communists, Nazis, Fascists, enemy spies and saboteurs, and nar-cotic rings—and seldom lost. He knows more about Communist activities in this country than any other man out-side the inner party council. And his recent promotion to superintendent may well foreshadow intensified efforts to combat Communism in Canada.

Canada Revisited

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

CANADIANS are reticent about least to its citizens. But those who have visited us, and that seems to include nearly everybody, have found that most Americans think them "British." and, as we all know Americans will not gracefully accept criticism from the British, though it's all right if they're Irish.

Although Canadians inhabit almost allowed us to appropriate the name as we do of ourselves, as "the

The "Americanization" of Canada is evrywhere visible, though we have not yet Americanized Canadian children or teen-agers. Canadian parents have not learned that their little ones may levelop neuroses if compelled to dis play mariners, and Canadian girls look like young girls and not imitations of Hollywood stars or cowboys. They have a scrubbed, brushed look; are sparing of cosmetics, favor skirts, and don't wear men's shirts over dungarees, with the tails out.

Neither are Canadian schools or universities Americanized: far less standardization in the schools; Quebec sees to that. The French-Canadian child even gets a different of the history of his country that of the English speaking. No doubt each somewhat corrects the

The colleges are, for the most part, deled on the Scottish universities -rather than with utilitarian training for a profitable specialty. Scholasti-cally, they are obviously competitively successful. They have no difficulty in exporting their graduates to the United States; indeed they export too many for the good of Canada. Some 20 presidents of American universities are Canadians. But when Canadians import scholarship they import it from England, Scotland or France, not from the United States. They do not consider themselves culturally inferior

Canada has Communists, who find to more defenders than in the States, But there are no loyalty oaths in Cana-dian colleges; to introduce them would affront the tradition of faculty freedom, and, besides, Canadians think it silly. A Canadian Conservative re-marks, "What does an oath mean to a Communist? They'll swear to any thing. But independent and free minds resent such oaths."

Canada, which has, in natural resources and in the quality of her popu lation, the potentials of a great world power, is, to a large extent, an eco-nomic colony of the United States. But it is not not yet a spiritual colony

Canada is pre-eminently a producer of raw materials. She supplies 90 per cent of the world's nickel, and is first as a producer of radium, platinum asbestos, aluminum in its primary state, and newsprint (80 per cent of American newspapers are printed on it). She has begun to develop one of the richest iron ore deposits on earth. Geologists tell me that her undeveloped oil resources exceed those of Texas. And, with less than 15,000,000 people, she is the world's third trading nation.

America is her primary market, and vice versa. A third of Canadian capital and profits are American, though pro-portionately more Canadians hold American investments than Ameri-
